REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

TO HON. WILLIAM ALLEN, Governor of Ohio:

In obedience to the act of April 20, 1874 (O. L., Vol. 71, pp. 98-102), we have the honor to submit the following report:

In May last the Board of Trustees made its annual organization by electing the same President and Secretary as in the preceding year.

At the same time, the term of service of Mrs. Adelia A. Nelson having expired, it was thought proper to appoint Mrs. W. P. Kerr, the wife of the Superintendent, as her successor. We believed Mrs. Kerr eminently fitted for the place, and as, by the usages of the institution, she, as the wife of the Superintendent, would, of course, reside there, it seemed the natural course to give her the place as matron, not only as a matter of economy, but as tending to that unity of action in both branches of the legal household of the Home more likely to occur where a husband and his wife were respectively at the head of each; and this course was taken without intending any disparagement to Mrs. Nelson, of whom we spoke so highly in our last report.

We also appointed, at the same meeting, O. C. Brewer to be clerk of the Home, in the place of John P. Kellogg, who had formerly acted as such, without any regular appointment of the present Board, as they found him so acting when they came into office, and made no change. Both of these young men efficiently performed their duties.

In August, the term for which Mr. James Hoyle had been appointed steward having expired, we thought it proper, and a matter of economy as well, to unite in the same person the duties of clerk and steward, and therefore appointed Mr. O. C. Brewer steward, and devolved on him the duties of that office, in addition to those he was already performing, without any increase in his compensation, thus saving six hundred dollars a year to the State; and, we are happy to say, we have thus far found him fully competent to perform both classes of duties. This change was made as a matter of system and economy, and for no other reason, for Mr. Hoyle had acted with efficiency and zeal as steward of the Home.

For the practical working and general management of the internal affairs of the Home, we must refer you to the report of Hon. W. P. Kerr, the Superintendent. We are satisfied the Home has never been in a better condition, all things considered, than it is now. The institution, in its early stages, labored under many difficulties which could only be surmounted by time and patience, and, unfortunately, are not all overcome yet. Seated in a forest, it had to be built up in a material sense before much else could be done. Buildings had to be erected, the grounds drained and secured from the tendency to generate disease incident to the crowding of so many persons into small space, cleanliness and comfort required the first attention of those having charge, and the labors of the first Board must have been very great. When the present Board was organized, the roughest and hardest work had been already done. But much yet remained in perfecting details, in improving buildings, grounds, and machinery of operation, and in organizing system, economy, and efficiency in the several departments of the institution. We have struggled to these ends as best we could, and we can not speak too highly of the practical good sense and wise management of the Superintendent in the same direction.

As stated last year, that clause in the law requiring the Board to advertise for sealed bids for articles of consumption, in certain cases, has given us great trouble. It has been extremely difficult to give it practical application, and an effort of nearly two years to do so has satisfied us that it is not, as it stands, a wise provision, and that it tends to waste and extravagance, instead of economy. We admit we have, in some cases, omitted the observance of the technical letter of the law, though we feel assured we have not violated its spirit. We respectfully suggest to your Excellency a recommendation to the General Assembly that this provision be carefully considered, and repealed or modified.

Under this provision we contracted, during the year, for 1,000 bushels of potatoes, at 42 cents per bushel, with J. W. Keefaber & Brother; also with W. F. Peluare for coal, delivered at the Home—"lump coal," $3.49 per ton; "nut coal," $2.80.

We also contracted with J. F. Eyler for fresh beef, at 5 cents per pound for boiling meat, and 11 cents per pound for roasting meat.

Wishing to make the pasturage on the farm available, we adopted the plan of purchasing live cattle and slaughtering them, with the following result:

Cost of same three months ending December 3, 1875, as follows—

For 56 head of cattle.....	$1,722 27
Three months' wages to butcher.....	80 00
	<hr/>
	$1,802 27
Less hides, tallow, and oil	315 91

The Board were much gratified that the General Assembly last year' following our suggestion, took steps to enable us to inaugurate a system of industrial education and employment at the Home. The sum appropriated was small, but we felt authorized to make a beginning. Shops have been established to teach printing, telegraphing, tailoring, dress-making, knitting, carpentering, blacksmithing, shoe-making, and tinning, and practical instruction is being given. We feel these things to be highly useful additions to the education formerly given, though they were perhaps not practicable in the infancy of the institution. They are intended not only to aid in preserving the health and promoting the order and discipline of the inmates when not engaged in the schools, but also to cultivate habits of industry and a sense of the dignity of labor, and, still more, to fit them to be self-sustaining and useful members of society after going out into the world. The purchase of the additional farm also gave us an opportunity to add farming industry to the rest. The cultivation of the farm, the garden, the vineyard; the clearing off of unsightly objects from the grounds, the planting of trees, the construction of roads and walks, attention to live stock, and other out-door employments, have proved invigorating and delightful employments to active-spirited boys, who would otherwise pine and sicken in the constant confinement of a narrow and ill-ventilated school-room, and given such variety to their occupations and pursuits as both tends to relieve them from ennui and restrain them from the marauding restlessness so troublesome to neighbors, and so natural to ardent and thoughtless boys.

We hope the General Assembly will, by still further appropriation, enable us to have this industrial education extended still further—not barely in the rougher forms of industry, but, so far as may be, give us the means to educate—draw out—even the more artistic and æsthetic tastes that may be found among the precious children under our charge. Nothing can supply the want of that actual fireside culture of home and a mother's kind and a father's sterner admonitions; but we feel that we shall labor, partially at least, in vain until we have done all we can do to make of this institution a home indeed for its inmates.

Nor do we forget that, though this is not the primary object of teaching the children industry, such a policy will, in our judgment, after it is once fully in operation, prove economical to the State and actually lessen the expense of the institution.

The moral and intellectual culture of the children is of prime importance, and under no circumstances to be neglected. While there is perfect freedom from all mere sectarianism, the service of the chapel and the Sabbath-school makes Sunday a day devoted to religious and moral instruction. The improvement of the chapel is a striking feature of the last year.

The schools, we think, were never more efficient, and what is lacking to make them still more so, is a proper school-house. The present old barn of a structure is the eye-sore of the Home. It stands just where the work-shops ought to be, and is quite well-suited for such purposes, but is not at all fit for school-rooms. We earnestly recommend that the General Assembly make an adequate appropriation for the building of a new school-house, adapted to the wants of the institution. An inspection of the present building is all that is needed to enforce the propriety of this recommendation. If the children are expected to go to school at all, a comfortable and well-ventilated house ought to take the place of the one improvised in the infancy of the Home.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the President and Board of Trustees of the O. S. and S. O. Home:

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit the sixth annual report of this institution.

I arrived here in December last, and found the institution a little demoralized, there having been no Superintendent for a period of two months. But every one seemed to fall in with the new administration, and in a very short time every one was in good subordination; and I think it will be found, on examination, that the children have been as obedient, quiet, and orderly, both on the grounds of the Home and on the adjacent property, as they have ever been. The Home has enjoyed a degree of health worthy of record, which our Physician will bring before you in his report.

I have endeavored to manage this institution somewhat as I would have done if the property were my own. Where repairs and improvements have been made, my plan has been to make them in a durable and permanent manner, and with the least possible expenditure consistent with this plan.

Among the improvements that have been made I may enumerate the following:

Gas was put in the laundry, at a cost of $99.80, in February last.

A telegraph school was opened in April, at a cost of $90.55.

A second story has been put on the laundry for shops, at a cost of $1761.90, in which we have a shoe shop, 22 by 30 feet and 12 feet high; a tin shop, 21 by 24 feet; a carpenter shop, 21 by 24; a printing office, 12 by 24, and another shop, 12 by 24 feet. Besides these five shops, three dormitories—steam, gas, water, and shafting all being in place in the laundry. We regard this a very valuable and desirable addition to the institution.

The board sidewalk has been built to the city limits, and continued from the administration building to the school-house and to the laundry and hospital, with thirteen hundred feet of stone street-crossing, where wagons must cross, a distance of more than one mile, at a cost of one thousand dollars—the appropriation. A small portion of the walk to the city was washed away by the flood, which was replaced at a cost of twenty-three dollars, and is included in the above expenditure. Our own carpenter, aided by some of our boys, did all the work. Oak logs cut on our land made the scantling for the walk.

We have put in a new cistern at the laundry, with a capacity of seventeen hundred barrels, and have conducted the rain-water from the laundry and from the hospital into it. The overflow from the two cisterns, into which flows the rain-water from all the cottages and the main buildings, is now conducted into this cistern, instead of into the sewer as heretofore. This is designed to increase the supply of rain-water for the laundry, so that we may not be compelled to use muddy creek water for washing clothes any more. Also, a cistern with a capacity of fourteen hundred barrels, into which you propose, at a future time, to empty all the sewerage, and then pump it out on to the garden and farm for fertilizing purposes.

Where the old coal shed was we have erected a brick building, with tin roof, in which we have a blacksmith shop, a kindling room, a coarse coal room, and a room for our new force-pump, made by Smith, Vail & Co., Dayton, with which you propose to force the sewerage out a half mile on to our land. It is also attached to the fire-protection, and has thrown a seven-eighth-inch stream of water ten feet over the top of the water tower, or more than one hundred feet high. We have laid fourteen hundred feet of three-inch iron pipe, fifty feet in the rear of the cottages, and have attached fire-plugs, to which we can, in less than five minutes, screw hose and throw water on to any of our buildings in case of fire. This has been done at a cost of one thousand dollars—the appropriation.

A straw-barn, 40 by 32 feet, has been erected to hold straw for filling our four hundred straw beds. Most of these are filled once a month.

A slaughter-house, 22 by 30, has been erected and furnished in a reasonable manner, in which we butcher all our fresh meat, saving, we hope, a considerable sum to the State in a year, and enabling us to know just what meat we have. Our butcher, Mr. Albert Gest, is a valuable addition to our force. He not only butchers our meat, with the aid of some boys, but he has charge of our sixteen milch cows—feeds and milks them; also, has charge of our hogs, over one hundred in number, and is ready for any job that arises.

The six hundred grape vines spoken of in a former report were found, most of them, on the ground; a part of them had a pine picket one inch by three inches for support. We have put in over four hundred locust posts, nine feet long and three feet in the ground, to support the vines on a wire trellis.

The old ragged board fence in front has all been torn away, and a beginning made to clean up the lawn, and fifteen iron hitching-posts put in place.

The hill from the front gate has been cut down to a uniform grade of less than six feet rise to a hundred feet from the front gate to the top of the hill, and three iron gas posts erected to use on dark nights.

The little cemetery in the rear of the chapel has been neatly cleaned up, and an arborvitæ hedge planted around three sides. Marble head and foot stones, with name, age, and date of death of each of the fifteen little sleepers there, are nearly ready for putting in place.

A large amount of work has been done in cleaning up, painting, and whitewashing the hospital, the twenty cottages, rooms in the domestic and administration buildings, and in painting the tin roof and floor of the veranda, and in sanding cornices and posts—very much more work than we anticipated when we began. The inside walls of the cottages have all been painted with lead and oil, and varnished. It may be enough to say that five barrels of linseed oil and nearly a barrel of varnish have been consumed in the whole work.

The chapel has been cleaned, painted, frescoed, matting put on the floor, seated with nice school settees, especially with reference to Sabbath-school use; a nice, plain desk, and suitable pulpit chairs have been provided. The Bible Society, through Mr. J. C. McMillan, Bible Society Agent, has generously donated us two hundred and fifty Bibles for use in the church, and the State has paid for three hundred singing-books, and we have as quiet and orderly a service at nine o'clock each Sabbath morning, conducted gratuitously by the clergymen of the city, as can be found any where.

A Hall's patent fire and burglar-proof safe, three feet eight inches high and two feet five inches wide, at a cost of $275, has been bought.

A refrigerator, 10 by 12 feet, was put in the basement early in the summer, into which we put a wagon load of ice at once. It has been very valuable in keeping perishable articles during the summer. I was enabled to take advantage of the low price of butter in June and July, and store in it two tons of butter, at sixteen cents a pound, to use when the price was high, and butter scarce. This is a very valuable addition to our fixtures.

An addition was made to our gas-house. The purifying fixtures were within five feet of the retorts, in the same apartment, which was regarded as very dangerous. We have erected an addition to the building, in which the purifying fixtures are placed in a separate apartment. We have also put in new fire-clay retorts.

Into each of twelve cottages a clothes-press with thirty apartments, one for each child, has been built. They will be placed in the remaining cottages as rapidly as possible.

The hospital has been renovated, inside walls painted, varnished, and kalsomined throughout. The old bedding and clothing have been thoroughly renovated. An abundant store of new bedding and clothing has been supplied for the hospital, to be kept in reserve for extraordinary necessity. A new cook-stove has been provided. Cistern water and hot water have both been conveyed there.

Miss Wright, the hospital matron, has proved herself a most faithful nurse, devoted and kind to the children, and self-sacrificing in her work. Our sick children can now be made comfortable. They are well cared for at the hospital. No friend of the institution need fear but that all is done for them that is possible to be done.

The laundry, under the superintendence of Miss Ann Harvey, is fully equal to the work to be done. With gas, which I have put in, and the addition of a seventeen-hundred-barrel cistern, by which we hope to avoid using muddy creek water for washing purposes, the laundry is better equipped for its work than ever before. The addition of another story to the building has changed it from an unsightly one to that of uniformity in appearance with the surrounding buildings. Other conveniences and improvements have been added as they seemed needed.

The past year has been one of work, a great deal of which has been done, and a vast amount yet remains to be done.

On my arrival I found more than one hundred and fifty boys here, between the ages of twelve and sixteen, and some over sixteen, without any work to do, other than the usual little chores about the premises. It has been my ambition to provide the means by which some of them could here learn the rudiments of a trade. There were no facilities for any thing of this kind. The report of 1874 states that sometimes one and sometimes two boys were employed in the shoe shop. But the shop was all gone, the tools scattered among the boys, the French calf-skins cut up for their slings, and a little roll of sole-leather only was found in the basement.

TELEGRAPH SCHOOL.

Soon after the adjournment of the last Legislature, which appropriated $5,000 for industrial pursuits in this institution, we opened a telegraph school, at a cost for outfit of $90.55, in which Mr. Crawl, who has had charge of it, has taught, each day, thirty to forty boys and girls. Several of these, who have practiced all the time since the school was opened in May last, are now able to transmit and receive messages by sound with facility. We have since, at a cost of $214, erected a line from our library-room to the school-house, thence to the telegraph office in the city (a distance of one and a half miles), with an office in the library-room, and one in the school-house. All our messages are transmitted from and received at the library-room by one of our orphan girls, who is the visitors' attendant, and who began with the telegraph school here.

SHOE SHOP.

Mr. W. H. Lyon has been in charge of the shoe shop since it was opened. He now has one journeyman and fifteen boys in the forenoon, and fifteen others in the afternoon—thirty in all—who are learning the shoe trade. We have bought no shoes since August last. They mend all our shoes and make all the new ones we need, thus far. What the difference in cost will be, we are not able to determine. The only controversy has been for who shall have the privilege of going into our shops. We have given the preference to the older boys. Where several apply, and we can take only a part of them, we have selected the oldest to go into the shop. I am very confident the shoe shop will make a saving to the State, but this is the least of the advantage. The habits of industry and the rudiments of a trade are more valuable. A boy will be better qualified to buy his own shoes, or to sell shoes, or for almost any business—even the Vice-Presidency.

TIN SHOP.

Mr. John Caddy has charge of our tin shop, and has three boys with him in the forenoon and three others in the afternoon of each day. He and they have done all our tin work, slate roofing and tin roofing, and repairing in that department. They are now making tinware for one of the hardware stores in the city, and are making work that will compare favorably with that of any of the shops. They make a galvanized iron bucket that ought to supersede the use of wooden buckets. I invite special attention to this. We can furnish it by the hundred or by the thousand, or in quantities as desired.

PRINTING OFFICE.

This has but just been opened. We have a single press—cost $300, price $384—and type and fixtures costing $100. Mr. Law, who has charge of this, teaches two boys in the forenoon and two in the afternoon to set type. We have done but little in this yet. We are printing all our own blanks, letter-heads, bill-heads, catalogue of library books, etc.

It will, in all probability, seem best to let the children get up a little paper and print it once a month or oftener, as may seem best, and thus stimulate them to composition as well as printing, and make it a medium of communication between the inmates and those interested in the Home.

BLACKSMITH SHOP.

I have fitted up a blacksmith shop and have a blacksmith employed, who will be here in a few days. But two boys will be all he can take at a time, or four each day. There are, perhaps, twenty boys of suitable age and strength who would like to learn something of this trade. The same is true of the tinner's trade and of printing. There are very many more who would like to go into these than we can take. It surely deserves to be considered whether more ample facilities should not be provided for these and some other trades.

KNITTING ROOM.

We have eight of the Bucyrus knitting machines, and under the management of Miss Maggie Gegan, of Piqua, we have been able to knit all our own woolen hosiery, and we are now knitting mittens for all the children. We have sold some woolen socks at good paying prices, and could sell all we could make if our machines were run to their utmost capacity. Responsible parties now want to make contracts with us for delivery in next July and August.

TAILOR SHOP.

At the last meeting of the board I was authorized to employ a tailor and open a tailor shop, for the purpose of teaching as many boys as desire the tailor trade. I have not yet been able to obtain a tailor, but hope to do so very soon.

DRESS-CUTTING AND MAKING.

At the same meeting, I was authorized to employ a professional dress-cutter and fitter to teach a class of girls to cut, fit, and make girls', boys', and women's clothing. I think I have secured the woman for this position. She has not arrived yet, but we expect her in a few days. We will be able to train each day twenty or twenty-five girls to perform this useful and honorable work, while obtaining their education, and in whatever station their lot may fall, they will be better fitted for the duties of life.

CARPENTER SHOP.

The new one is to be in a room in the second story of the laundry, in which we propose to put a turning lathe, a small surfacer, a circular saw, and perhaps a half dozen Fleetwood scroll saws, which I have purchased for the different boys with their own money, and are now in their respective cottages, much to their inconvenience. Such other fixtures can be added as may seem best.

Some boys work on the farm, some aid the gardener, some the engineer, some the butcher, some the baker, some the carpenter. The girls perform the work in their respective cottages, and most of the work in their own dining rooms; they are employed in the telegraph office, the knitting room, and girls' sewing room.

But in all cases where the children are employed one-half of the day, they are in school the other half, in accordance with the following resolution adopted by the Board:

Resolved, That as soon as practicable after this date, the Superintendent of the Home, with the assistance of the principal of the schools, organize the high school and grammar school departments of the school in such a way as to include all inmates of the Home who are ordinarily subject to detail for work during regular school hours; and the said departments shall each be divided into two classes; and hereafter details shall be made of one whole class from each room, each school day, for a full half day.

Under this arrangement no child is ever absent from his or her classes on account of work.

THE FARM

Has been under the management of Mr. Joseph Black. A large number of boys have been employed in cultivating the land. Although the products have not been as abundant as we could wish, and as would have been with a more propitious season, still we believe the investment in the farm a valuable one for the institution. It affords an opportunity to employ a large number of boys, who would otherwise be idle. The effort to employ the boys at the Home the last season gives additional confirmation to the principle that industry is a moral power—idleness is the Devil's work-shop. All bear testimony that since our boys have been employed at work a little more, they have been more orderly, quiet, and obedient.

Little has been accomplished on the one hundred and fifty-three acres purchased last spring, only to get it prepared for future use. Over sixty acres of it have been seeded with clover. An effort will be made to seed down nearly all the cleared land the coming spring. When this shall have been done, and all the sewerage distributed on the farm and garden, a beginning will have been made for a successful and profitable cultivation of the soil. We will be able during the fall and winter to distribute more than a thousand wagon loads of manure on the lawn, garden, and farm.

LIBRARY.

During the early part of the year we expended for library books two hundred dollars, the amount of the appropriation for that purpose on hand, and purchased two hundred and ten volumes. We have catalogued of the old ones found here two hundred and forty-two volumes, making four hundred and fifty-two volumes all together—not one volume of books costing less than one dollar each to a child. There are a few old books besides, so much worn that they were not considered worth covering and cataloguing.

We have about three hundred dollars on hand that will be expended at once for library books. With this addition, the library will be very meagre for six hundred children. We would respectfully urge the Legislature to make a liberal appropriation for the library.

EXPENDITURES.

The year ending November 15, 1875, has been unusually expensive, because, during the first month, there was no superintendent, and there was nothing effected in the way of retrenchment and reform for several months after the new one was installed. Besides, there have been one hundred more children in the institution than ever before at any one time, which should increase the expenditures ten or twelve thousand dollars. Besides, bedding, linen, table-ware, and children's clothing have all been improved, both in quality and quantity. In addition, the following expenditures have been made, which should not be charged to the current expenditures of the institution :

COST OF PERMANENT FIXTURES AND IMPROVEMENTS.

Gas to laundry	$99 80
Telegraph school outfit	90 55
Side-walk to city limits.....	1,000 00

TOTAL EXPENDITURES.

The total expenditures for the last year, for all purposes, have been $110,622.31. This includes salaries of officers and teachers, and all the extraordinary expenditures that have been made for all purposes whatever during the year. If from this ($110,622.31) we deduct $18,732.26, we have $91,890.05—the cost of keeping six hundred children a year, including clothing, schooling, transportation, and all official salaries and pay of all employes, or $153.15 each a year, or less than $3 a week each. If from this total cost we deduct transportation, clothing, and all incidental expenses, which some of the other State institutions do not pay, viz.:

Transportation	$1,795 60
Dry goods	6,804 27
Shoes	4,080 11
Hats and caps.....	443 67
Books and stationery	675 18
Postage	200 00—$13,998 83

There remains, as the total ordinary expenses of the institution, $77,891.22, or $129.82 each child a year; or less than $2.50 a week for each child, including all expenses included in the State institutions.

The following shows the actual cost per pupil per year, for the same items of expenditure, for the year ending November 15, 1875, in the institutions named:

Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home.....	$129 82
Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Columbus	197 81
Blind Asylum, Columbus.....	274 89

It may be interesting to tax-payers to compare, also, the amount of permanent investment in both real estate and fixtures and furniture in the various benevolent institutions of Ohio, as made per capita for the inmates of each one. We have not at hand the data with which to make this comparison.

After making my purchases for a time in Xenia, where they had usually been made, I found, on inquiry, that a large saving could be made in buying elsewhere. As section 7 of the act passed April 20, 1874, provides that "said Superintendent shall make all contracts on behalf of, and all purchases for, said institution where they can be made on the best terms," there was no option left me as to my duty. I have endeavored to comply with the above provision, as well as all others, as far as I could; and, to the best of my judgment, I have purchased where I could do so on the best terms, all things considered. Bills for all purchases made are on file in the Probate Court, Xenia, and are open to the inspection of all. I refrain from making invidious comparisons.

One of the proprietors of the only wholesale house (groceries) in Xenia informed me that their house was under agreement with the retail dealers by which they could not sell the Home any goods. Wholesale dealers outside of Xenia have met me most cordially, and, I have reason to believe, have sold me as low as they do their regular customers, and in some cases, perhaps, at lower rates.

While in some respects the past year has been one of large expenditure, in others we hope a reduction of expenses has at least begun. From September 1, 1874, to November 15, 1874, there were delivered to the various cottages three hundred and forty-two pairs shoes, which were bought in Xenia. Same date, 1875, September 1 to November 15, there were delivered to the cottages, which contained then about one hundred more children than in 1874, one hundred and thirty pairs shoes, or two hundred and twelve pairs less than in 1874. The difference is largely owing to the fact that our own boys mended the shoes in our shop in 1875, and they were mended closer than when taken to the shops in the city. It is believed that under the present arrangement our shoe bill will not amount in a year to more than one-half what it has been heretofore for the same number.

An effort has been made to establish a rigid accountability on the part of employes, so that we may be able to show what has been done with all the property that comes into their hands. It is believed this will promote economy and care. In several departments we anticipate a reduction of expenses, which it may be enough to recite when they shall have been accomplished facts for a sufficient length of time. The minimum expenditure has not been reached, by any means, in several of the departments of this institution.

EDUCATION

In this institution should have a twofold object—intellectual and industrial. It is not enough to impart useful knowledge and give vigor of mind and habits of thought. Most of our race obtain their livelihood, if at all, by manual labor. If so, it would be unwise to go upon the theory that our children are of the favored few, and that all, or nearly all, of them are endowed by talent and taste for intellectual pursuits. Habits of industry and a trade will, in all probability, be far more potential than intellectual development with most of them in the struggle of life. If it is true that youth in school should learn those things they will need to practice in after life, it would seem that any education would be very defective that did not give a trade and habits of industry to our children. The disposition to work depends very much on being accustomed to it from youth. Many orphans, as well as those who are not orphans, have been taught to think that to be professional men and ladies is what they ought to aim at—to be lawyers, doctors, clerks, and school teachers ought to be their ambition. The professions are honorable, but they are crowded, while skilled labor more readily commands its price. The genteel professions, except to a few, yield a bare support, and are often only another name for beggary. We would rather teach our children to love the occupations of farmers and mechanics, than that the professions only are honorable. Where any one has the talent and the taste for a profession we give that one all possible encouragement and aid.

SCHOOLS.

The schools have continued under the superintendence of Mr. E. Merrick, who has had charge of them during all the history of the institution. Since the introduction of some industrial pursuits there is very little truancy. They are making rapid progress in their studies, and are probably doing better in their studies while working half of the time than they did while in school all the time. Children, as well as adults, require variety. One perpetual round of a tread-wheel becomes very monotonous, and rather tends to stupefy the energies and powers, while the introduction of variety and change will quicken and develop the latent intellectual powers of the child. I have no doubt myself but the children will learn more, and be able to make better practical application of what they do learn, by devoting a part of each day to industrial pursuits. Under the new arrangement we have, and propose to have, better schools than ever before here.

The old barn school-house is about the only blemish on our premises. The earnest wish is expressed that the Legislature will make a liberal ap-appropriation for a new school-house. The old one would do for shops, and it is imperatively needed for that purpose. Our industrial operations are only just begun. Given the means and facilities, they are capable of very great development. We have entered on only a few of the cruder branches. They should be carried on to finer artistic branches that will cultivate and develop the taste. While it may do to begin on the cruder forms, there should be no stopping till the highest perfection is attained.

Religious service is still conducted gratuitously, at nine o'clock Sabbath morning, by the clergymen of the city. We are under renewed obligations to them. The chapel is new, neat, and pleasant, and the children are quiet and orderly during the service, and apparently very much interested. No pains are spared by cottage managers and teachers to cultivate and develop the moral character of the children. The services of Mr. J. H. Cooper, superintendent of the Sabbath-school, and of Mr. J. C. C. Carey, assistant superintendent, and of the various teachers who assist in the Sunday-school every Sabbath afternoon, are highly appreciated, and the Superintendent desires to return thanks to them all for their self-denying labor of love. The Sabbath-school has recently been divided—a part of it taken to the school-house. The little chapel was so crowded with teachers and pupils that it was impossible to conduct it in a satisfactory manner.

By your order I paid to Mr. Cooper one hundred and fifty dollars, which has been expended in Sabbath-school papers, which are distributed each Sabbath among the children, giving each child a paper.

Permit me, in conclusion, to recognize that Providence that has so kindly watched over us the past year. Life has been spared; health has been enjoyed; no calamity has befallen us. An abundance of the good things of this life has been provided for us.

Respectfully submitted,

W. P. KERR, Superintendent.

REPORT OF PRINCIPAL OF SCHOOLS.

To the Superintendent O. S. and S. O. Home:

SIR: The children in the school department now number five hundred and fifty-one. These include all children in the Home six years of age and over. They are distributed in the following grades: one high-school, two grammar, two intermediate, and four primary rooms. In our high-school and A grammar grade we have about one hundred and sixty pupils, or eighty in each room. In each of these rooms the pupils are divided into two divisions—one division attending school in the morning, the other in the afternoon. This arrangement enables every child in these two grades to spend half of each day learning some useful trade. We believe this is an excellent arrangement, for the children are learning habits of industry, and by studying at their cottages evenings will accomplish as much in school during the half day as if in attendance the whole day. The plan, so far as tried, has certainly worked well, the children showing increased interest in their studies. It is much to be preferred to the system of detailing. The studies pursued in our grammar, intermediate, and primary rooms correspond with those usually found in corresponding grades of our town schools. In our high-school we teach higher arithmetic, algebra, geometry, physiology, physical geography, English composition, and book-keeping. The teachers are all faithful and competent, discharging their duties with marked success. We certainly ought to have apparatus sufficient to enable us to teach something of the natural sciences. The principles of vocal music are taught in every room by an excellent teacher employed especially for this department.

EDWARD MERRICK,
Principal of Schools.

REPORT OF THE PHYSICIAN.

XENIA, OHIO, November 23, 1875.

To the Board of Managers of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home:

GENTLEMEN: Herewith I have the honor of laying before your honorable body my report as physician to the institution under your charge for the year ending November 15, 1875.

The number of inmates of the Home during the past year has been greater than ever before, being in the neighborhood of six hundred; and we have been so very fortunate as to have had but four deaths (two of which were beyond the reach of medicine), and the general health, aside from the epidemics of measles and scarlet fever (which will be considered hereafter, and which were of a generally mild type, though with an occasional aggravated case), left nothing to be desired.

The following tables will exhibit the number of cases treated, disease, deaths, etc.:

NAME OF DISEASE.	Number.	NAME OF DISEASE.	Number.
Abscess	3	Obstruction of bowels	2
Aciteo	2	Orchitis	1
Bronchitis	8	Pharyngitis	3
Burn	2	Pneumonia	7
Conjunctivitis	51	Pulmonary œdema	1
Cerebro-spinal meningitis	2	Pleurisy	2
Croup	1	Rheumatism	8
Diphtheria	4	Scarlatina simplex	55
Epilepsy	1	Scorbutus	2
Erysipelas	7	Scrofula	5
Febricula	20	Tonsilitis	4
General debility	6	Typho-malarial fever	1
Hysteria	2	Tubercular meningitis	1
Hip-joint disease	1	Varicella	2
Intermittent fever	11	Wounds, fractures, etc.	11
Mumps	2
Measles	75	Total	305
Opacity of cornea	2

The deaths during the year were—

The prevalence of sore eyes from the opening of the institution, and during the first two months of this year, was especially noticeable, and I anxiously sought for some means of eradicating the troublesome complaint. After careful thought and attention, I fixed upon the manner in which the inmates washed their hands and faces as the cause of contagion. This washing was done in tin wash-basins, three in each cottage, and the drying of hands and faces was done on one large towel in each cottage. Early in this year I caused fixtures to be introduced, at slight expense, whereby all the children washed in running water, and were to dry their faces on separate towels. In all the cottages where this arrangement was adhered to, there has been no new cases of the disease (other than those of a scrofulous nature), and those then affected made rapid recovery. I would suggest that this rule be made imperative, as I am convinced that by this means the disease may be entirely exterminated.

In reference to the epidemics of measles and scarlet fever, I found by examining the medical records of the institution that, from the time the Home was opened, these diseases have been epidemic every winter. Last winter being the first one I have had the honor of serving in my present capacity, I paid serious and close attention to the discovery of the cause of the epidemics. I soon became satisfied that in both cases the diseases originated within the institution, and were not imported from outside. Pursuing my inquiries in this direction, and exhausting all other possible modes of contagion, I determined that the germs of disease were contained in the bed-clothes and bedding. By examination into the usage, as to the quilts, blankets, etc., it was ascertained that in the spring of each year, when the heavier articles were no longer necessary, they were taken from the beds and, without airing or disinfecting, stowed in the closets during the summer, and on the coming of winter they were taken therefrom, and again placed upon the beds. And the breaking out of these dangerous epidemics was coincident with the use of winter bedding. Thus the disease was packed away each spring in the quilts and blankets, and carefully preserved until the approach of winter, when it served to occasion a new epidemic. This spring, in connection with Professor Kerr, Superintendent of the Home, we caused each article of bed-clothing to be thoroughly washed, dried, and aired. To this I attribute our entire freedom from measles and scarlet fever up to the present time this year.

Another subject which I consider of sufficient importance to recommend to the attention of your honorable body is the establishment of a quarantine hospital for the reception of new inmates for the Home, where they may be retained for a number of days, so that any disease with which they may be affected can be discovered, and thus prevent the introduction of contagious diseases among the inmates of the Home. And I would respectfully ask the setting apart of one of the cottages for this purpose. I am the more impelled to ask this from the fact, that about two weeks ago a boy was admitted to the Home, and after a week's residence and mingling with the inmates was discovered to have the whooping-cough, thus giving sufficient time for the communication of the disease to others. The receiving-cottage would, in this case alone, have saved us a large amount of probable illness.

In conclusion, I would express my sincere thanks to my superior, Professor Kerr, for his assistance in various reforms and for his uniform kindness, and to the entire body of officers of the institution for their assistance and prompt attention to my requests.

Your most obedient servant,

C. B. JONES, M.D.

REPORT OF THE FARMER.

To the Superintendent of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home:

SIR: The following farm report, during my management from January 1, 1875, is respectfully submitted:

With the assistance of the boys we have built fence, as follows:

Rail fence.....	1158 panels.
Picket fence.....	82½ “

The crops are as follows:

Sweet corn.....	381 bushels.
Feed corn.....	375 “
Early potatoes	227 “
Late potatoes	525 “
Hay—Hungarian.....	8 tons.
“ Pigeon Grass.....	85 “
Corn fodder.....	600 shocks.
Oats.....	525 bushels.
Oats straw.....	15 tons.

We have during the spring sowed sixty acres in clover and timothy. The crops were more than half destroyed by wet weather.

In stock we have made little change. We have at present fifteen milch cows, producing about twenty-four gallons of milk per day. The number of hogs are—sixty-five shoats, averaging fifty pounds; old hogs, forty: besides thirty old hogs furnished to the butcher.

We have hauled from town six hundred loads of manure. We have also graded the hill, at the entrance of the grounds, with our own teams and with the work of the boys. We have also hauled gravel and cinders for repairing roads.

J. K. BLACK, Farmer.

REPORT OF GARDENER.

To the Superintendent O. S. and S. O. Home:

SIR: The following report of garden products, from January 1, 1875, is respectfully submitted:

On entering upon my duties as gardener, I found the green-house almost destitute of plants. It has since been extended thirty-two feet, being now about sixty feet in length. It is now full of green and flowering plants, sufficient to supply the wants of the institution. During the summer the boys took care of the flower garden, and manifested much interest in their work. This work, cultivating in the boys a love for the beauties of nature, can not fail to have a good influence on their moral character. The love of nature always does this, and this will be one of the greatest benefits derived from the culture of flowers. We have supplied the cottages, hospital, and administration building with all the plants they have desired, thus making these places more cheerful and homelike.

In the vegetable department we have been obliged to purchase nothing to supply the wants of the institution. In this department, as well as the other, the work has been mostly done by the boys, which has not only been a saving to the institution, but an advantage to them, as it has taught them the science of cultivation. The following is about a correct estimate of products:

Onions (500 dozen green).....	75 bushels.
Radishes	20,000 bunches.
Tomatoes	449 bushels.
Cucumbers	406 “
Peas	127 “
Beans	113 “
Parsnips.....	211 “
Beets.....	110 “
Cabbage (early).....	7,640 heads.
Cabbage (late).....	23,670 “
